Skiers deluge Bethel area as winter vacation begins

While the local ski areas had been attracting record numbers of skiers in the excellent early season, those numbers paled in the light of the host of skiers who came to the Bethel area for Christmas vacation week.

At Sunday River Ski Resort, over 11,000 people were skiing over the weekend—a new record. On Saturday alone, over 6,000 showed up—a new record. The old record for a single day, set last season, was 5,000.

At Mt. Abram Ski Slopes, the total for the weekend was nearly 3,000 skiers—about 1,450 on Saturday, and 1,500 on Sunday, according to spokeswoman Jean Anton. Just as significant was the fact that the crowds were still there yesterday (Monday).

At Sunday River Ski Touring Center, there were nearly 600 people on skinny skis over the weekend—a new record for a Christmas weekend.

The record numbers of skiers in the area was achieved despite a Christmas Day storm of freezing rain. "People are very surprised to find so much snow up here," Sunday River Ski Touring Center's Steve Wight said. And, he added, "The sunshine is certainly a big factor (in drawing the crowds)."

Mt. Abram's Ms. Anton said, "We were (especially) pleased because there wasn't snow in Portland and south."

Sunday River Ski Resort's marketing director, Wende Gray, pointed out that the Bethel area ski slopes were lucky with the ice storm. First, the temperatures on the Bethel area mountains did not get as warm as they did on most higher mountains during the temperature inversion of the storm. Thus there was no melting of the snow base. Second, the temperatures did not plummet after the freezing rain stopped falling. That gave the local skiways the opportunity to get out with their grooming equipment to break up the ice before it turned to boiler plate.

And that meant that both skiways had loose granular conditions for the

AS FAR AS THE EYE COULD SEE there were skiers (and skiers' cars) at Sunday River Ski Resort last weekend. Numbers of skiers hit a new single-day record on Saturday—between 6,000 and 6,500—while the weekend total—over 11,000—was also a new record for a weekend. Mt. Abram also experienced a full house of skiers, while area inns and motels were filled.

Numerous stories on growth topped the news during 1986

Reviewing the major stories published in the pages of The Citizen over the past 12 months, 10 or so stories stand out—particularly those having to do with growth. These stories, cumulatively, rank #1 among the top 10 stories of the year.

One of the very first stories of the year was a survey, by The Citizen, of the area real estate market. The story reported that the market for second homes was booming and there was no end in sight.

The story further reported 166 real estate transfers in Bethel in 1985, compared with just 140 in 1984.

And that was nothing compared to Newry, which recorded 176 real estate transfers in 1985, mostly at the skiway.

The year in review

The cost of real estate was going up even faster than the increase in the numbers of properties sold. Real estate agents told The Citizen average prices had gone up about $10,000 in two years, on properties of all types, excluding condominiums.

As for the latter, a one-bedroom unit at Sunday River Ski Resort that sold for $40,000 last year, this year cost $60,000.

Condo sales were the hottest segment of the real estate market. When the Bethel Savings Bank purchased the Barn Motel in order to turn it into 32 condominium units, buyers lined up for the condos before any formal sale offering could be made. Sunday River and Mt.

Abram skiways both have been able to pre-sell everything they build, as has The Bethel Inn in the case of its planned condos.

The growth has scared people, as well as provided jobs for people. On the scary side: house prices are getting to the point where a young family starting out cannot afford to buy a home. And rental costs follow along the same upward path.

Then there is the feeling that things are getting too crowded. While hundreds upon hundreds of condos have gone in at Sunday River Ski Resort, Bethel residents didn't concern themselves with the building boom too much until a 50-unit project was proposed for Eden Ridge, overlooking Vernon Street.

Though the project was approved, it got a lot of people saying the town needed controls on growth, leading to easy adoption of a Comprehensive Plan and a committee to recommend a land use plan for next year's town meeting.

In Newry, residents became visibly upset when it appeared that condominium construction would not remain up at the skiway but would spill over into the valleys—both the Sunday River valley and the Bear River valley. For

Oxford Bank decides it wants W. Paris branch

The Oxford Bank Board of Directors has given its approval to setting up a branch bank in West Paris.

Executive Vice President Ed Dilworth told The Citizen: "The board said, 'Negotiate with him (Jim Delamater, president of the Bethel Savings Bank), and if you can come to terms with him, do it.'"

What is being negotiated is the purchase price of the existing bank building, which is owned by the Bethel Savings Bank. The two sides are still far apart, Mr. Dilworth said. But if a settlement can be reached, the Oxford Bank is ready to go ahead and take over the branch, he added.

The Bethel Savings Bank is closing its West Paris branch in order to open a branch in South Paris, from which it hopes to be able to better serve the entire Oxford Hills area.

The West Paris town office has already transferred town funds out of the Bethel Savings Bank, and recently the town office deposited some of its funds with the Oxford Bank, according to town officials.

The Citizen Office will be closed all day Wednesday, Dec. 31, for inventory.

Late starts on Mondays in SAD #44 schools

In an effort to complete the necessary meetings throughout SAD #44 dealing with the accreditation of Telstar Regional High School and to deal with various curriculum review projects, the SAD #44 Board of Directors has approved and authorized a one-hour delayed start of school on six Mondays during the remainder of the 1986-87 school year.

On the following Mondays, schools in SAD #44 will start one hour later than normal: Jan. 12, Feb. 9, March 9, April 6, May 4 and June 1.

SAD #44 BUDGET WORKSHOP SERIES AT WOODSTOCK JAN. 7

The fourth in a series of workshops on the 1986 fiscal year budget by the SAD #44 board of directors is scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday evening, Jan. 7, at the Woodstock Elementary School. Topics expected to be covered are: special education, special education administration, debt service, and copy center.

On Wednesday, Jan. 21, elementary education and elementary administration will be topics at a 7 p.m. workshop at the Andover Elementary School.

Members of the public are welcome to attend the budget workshop sessions.

Local businesses light trees

Several enthusiastic businesses pooled their resources and saw to it that every other hardwood on the Bethel Common got lit with white pinlights for the holiday season.

Several Bethel Fire Department volunteers on the ladder truck and volunteers from the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, Irving Farrar and Robin Zinchuk, actually strung the lights on the trees, which will be lit through the third week of February.

The following businesses are responsible for the lights: Bethel Inn, Sudbury Inn, Four Seasons Inn, Bethel Savings Bank, Chapman Inn, W.J. Wheeler's, Kendall's Insurance, Yarnery and Needleworks, L'Auberge, Miller's Inn, Gillies Realty, Mother's, Michael O'Donnell, Opera House Condominium, Bonema Potters, Maine Street Realty, Prim's, and Groan and McGurn.

The chamber would like to express its thanks to Brooks Bros. for the good price on the lights etc.

Forestry getting a bum rap

This week's report by the state Department of Conservation that the public perceives overcutting as the major problem afflicting forests in the state should raise warning flags among area people, being as the woods industry is a staple of the local economy.

The finding was based on a public opinion poll conducted among 700 households throughout the state. It matters not whether the respondents know a woodlot from a cow pasture or a skidder from a manure spreader, the fact of the matter is perceptions are often more important than reality in formulating public policy.

While the forest industry has done excellent work in bringing legislators to the area to observe forest practices and forest problems, it is obvious that more work is needed. And public relations efforts are clearly called for among the general public that visits the mountains mainly for recreation.

It would be well for local wood-based industry companies, together with the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, to invite statewide media representatives to the area to get a first-hand look at our forests and determine for themselves whether they are overcut. While the Portland Press Herald has devoted extensive coverage to the problems of the state's forests, other media have not.

It might also be possible to make informational brochures available to visiting skiers to show them that a responsible woods industry and a responsible recreation industry are not mutually antagonistic.

It is time to educate those people who think of Maine only in terms of lobsters and recreation. bfw

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends are reminded that the annual "So You Think You Know Bethel" will be the feature of the monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society to be held on New Year's Day (Thursday) beginning at 7:30 p.m. Anyone interested in attending this meeting is cordially invited to do so.

Several books from an anonymous donor have been received this week which may be of interest to genealogists and other researchers in the society's Eva Bean Research Room. These include Gerald D. Foss's Three Centuries of Freemasonry in New Hampshire (1972); R.W. Musgrave's History of the Town of Bristol, New Hampshire; George W. Chase's History of Haverhill, Massachusetts; Thomas Bellows Wyman's The Genealogies and Estates of Charlestown, Massachusetts; F. Allen Burt's The Story of Mount Washington (1960); and Margaret Wood's The English Mediaeval House. These are now available to researchers and much gratitude is expressed to the donor for adding them to the society's ever-growing collection of genealogies, town histories and resource books.

Anyone interested in acquiring William B. Lapham's The History of Norway, Maine and William B. Lapham and Silas P. Maxim's History of Paris, Maine should call (824-2308) or write the Bethel Historical Society, P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217. Copies are now for sale in the society store and may be picked up at during regular hours.

Congratulations are due society honorary member Ralph Hall on receiving Bethel's Boston Post Cane and to Robert and Florence Hastings, life members of the society, on their 60th wedding anniversary this week.

Society President Alden Kennett is now home from the Maine Medical Center and is much improved.

Newest members of the society include Albert Taylor, Cumberland Center; Marvin Fairbanks, Bethel; Alfaretta M. Mason, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Jane Gibson, West Paris; Suzanne S. Bartlett, Bethel; James Lowe, Bethel.

President Kennett has named the society's committees for 1987, as follows: Building: E.M. Quinn, chairman; Richard Verville, George Noll, Julia Brown, Rodney Howe, James Yarnell, Fred McMillan, Donald Vantour.

The year in review

awhile there was talk of a moratorium, on multi-family housing. That finally quieted down and the Planning Board set about drafting a Comprehensive Plan as a precursor to a possible attempt at developing a zoning ordinance.

In Woodstock and Greenwood, people have been awakened to the fact that lakefront land is becoming unaffordable, except by the wealthy, and to the fact that tighter local controls are needed to keep the lakes and ponds safe and clean from human waste.

Without a doubt, the rapid growth of the real estate market was the top story of the year.

The number two story—which, like the number one story, is also a continuing story—was the increasing cost of getting rid of solid waste.

With the state closing down open dumpsites, area towns have been scrambling to find alternatives. Greenwood and Woodstock, which had successfully established a transfer station and were sending their trash to the Auburn incinerator, were told the incinerator was going to partially close for repairs and when it re-opened they would have to pay triple what they had been paying. They balked and began sending their trash to the commercial landfill at Norridgewock, at double the cost.

West Paris, which had closed its dump and set up a transfer station from which trash was trucked to Norridgewock, also found its costs doubled, as demand at Norridgewock pushed up the fees.

Andover still operates a landfill, and still finds loads of waste from out-of-state occasionally dumped there, which is a continuing problem.

Bethel, which had converted to a landfill under prodding by the state Department of Environmental Protection, found costs of operation and planned shutdown staggering. To offset the operating cost and the planned decommissioning, Bethel officials sharply increased the fees charged out-of-town users, mainly the Town of Newry. The charges to Newry more than doubled in the spring and nearly doubled again in the fall.

Bethel officials also upped the user fees for the Bethel Ambulance Service and the Bethel Fire Department. This led to the county, plus the towns of Upton and Newry, choosing to find alternative ambulance coverage. The county asked Stoneham Rescue to cover Albany, while Upton signed up with a New Hampshire service and Newry signed up with a Rumford service.

The number three story of the year was the school budget controversy. When told by the school board that the proposed district budget would cause town assessments to increase by 50 percent, many residents were outraged.

This led the boards of selectmen of the five district towns to take the unprecedented step of devising a budget-cutting plan.

At the district budget meeting, in May, a record number of voters showed up (over 700) to soundly defeat the proposed $4.2 million budget and to adopt the $400,000 cut proposed by the selectmen of the five towns.

An effort, led by district teachers, to reverse the decision at a second meeting called for that purpose, failed to generate much interest.

The school board then set about trimming $400,000 from the budget, still leaving a year-to-year increase of around $200,000. The effect of the cuts, according to school administrators, has been to force them to defer maintenance and repair work, to curtail field trips, to abolish interscholastic sports at the grade school level, and to put off purchases of new textbooks and teaching aids.

On the other hand, the expected tax increases due to the higher school assessments never materialized, as greater tax valuations offset the higher assessments in most district towns.

The number four story was one of anguish for the hundreds of area workers associated with the Boise Cascade mill in Rumford. With their contract due to expire June 30, the nearly 1,200 members of Local 900 of the United Paperworkers International Union decided to discontinue contract negotiations in the face of Boise demands for concessions. The strike lasted for 76 days and resulted in the workers accepting essentially the same contract offer they had originally refused.

The strike also resulted in over 300 union workers losing their jobs—replaced by new workers during the strike. Some of these displaced workers filed a case with the National Labor Relations Board against their union for misleading them. That case is still pending.

The effects of the strike were felt in every town of central and northern Oxford County, with strikers and salary workers carrying their differences into the communities in which they lived. There was also a marked slowdown of economic activity.

As a footnote to the labor story, it was also reported that labor did not always lose to management. In Bryant Pond, the union was reinstated at the Stowell mill, following an opinion by the NLRB. The union had been left out when the mill changed hands last year.

The number five story this year was a once-in-150-year story. It was the sesquicentennial celebration of Gould Academy, founded in 1836. While the celebration went on all year, under the theme "Great Teaching," it hit full stride during Alumni Weekend in October, with record numbers of alumni returning to town and a new bell tower being dedicated.

The number six story this year also celebrated a milestone. That was the record-breaking passes set by the two local ski areas. Both Sunday River Ski Resort and Mt. Abram Ski Slopes recorded their best years ever. Mt. Abram, which was using snowmaking for the first time, reported more skiers than ever before.

Sunday River reported its lift ticket sales almost doubled, to 160,000 in the '85-'86 season, from 95,000 the season before. This brought in revenues of $4 million on the skiing side of the operation alone, not counting real estate sales and rentals.

Both ski areas quickly got started adding more snowmaking. Sunday River's expansion during the summer was pegged at $12 million, and included new trails, lifts and trailside condominiums.

The number seven story of the year was the construction and opening of a greatly expanded Bethel Area Health Center. The new facility, in the remodeled A&P building, will ultimately have a modern emergency room, x-ray unit, and other patient services. A fund-raising drive, which raised over $100,000, helped pay for the half-million dollar facility.

The number eight story was also a sign of growth, and it was a story with a number of different parts. It was a story of business expansion: in Bethel there was the opening of The Bethel Inn's new 250-seat conference center, which immediately began bringing big conferences to town; also in Bethel was the doubling in size of the GAMM II garment factory, which allowed an increase in employment to over 50; in West Paris, the Dragon cement plant received the necessary state permits and began making cement and sending it to job sites throughout the area.

The number nine story was another sign of expansion and growth: the approval of a new Woodstock Elementary School. The $1.5 million project is well underway and should be completed on schedule next summer.

Rounding out the top 10 local stories of the year was the story about the U.S. Forest Service management plan for the White Mountain National Forest, released early in the year. While local timber interests had lobbied hard for a greatly increased timber harvest, the recreation and preservation forces prevailed and the final plan contains very modest increases in timber harvesting, while greatly expanding the amount of recreational areas, including a wilderness study area of 12,000 acres in the Caribou-Speckled Mountain area.

Donut shop coming to West Paris area

Within a few months there should be a new donut shop on Rte. 26, just south of West Paris. The vacant brick storefront on that road has been purchased by Tony Caggiano, of Canton, Mass., who, according to sources, plans to remodel the building into a donut shop. The sale of the building was made by Kennison Real Estate, of Norway.

Mr. Caggiano has purchased a lot in the new subdivision on Lake Christopher, in Bryant Pond, and plans to build a home there, sources said. Mr. Caggiano could not be reached for comment.

This story is actually continuing, as both sides appeal the final verdict.

A story The Citizen covered extensively, but which drew little interest among readers, was the story of the attempt by the federal Department of Energy to consider Maine as a second site for the deposit of high-level nuclear wastes. Because of the lack of local interest, the story doesn't make it into the top 10. Maybe it can be called an honorable mention.

While interest locally was low, in the areas the DOE was considering as possible repository sites, public opinion was vocal and outraged, particularly in the Bridgton-Naples area. The DOE received more comments from Maine than from any other state.

In what many considered a political move to help Republican candidates, the DOE finally completely shelved plans for a second repository, temporarily getting Maine, and six other states, off the hook.

Another honorable mention should go to the great flood of 1986. Caused by heavy rain, snow melt, and water let loose at the Errol, N.H., dam, the January flood isolated Bethel for a day and left a lot of soggy homes. The only casualties were some cows in Shelburne, N.H.

SKIERS DELUGE BETHEL AREA

weekend, as compared with frozen granular at most other ski areas in Maine and New Hampshire. By late Sunday, there was good packed powder on the trails.

And that meant skiers came from all around, including significant numbers from Vermont, New Hampshire and New York. On Friday and Saturday, Massachusetts skiers seemed to predominate, according to Ms. Gray, while on Sunday, Maine skiers from all over flocked to the local skiways.

The good skiing, and the resultant horde of skiers, had considerable impact on service facilities in the area.

Bill Riley, who arranges rentals in the Locke Mills/Bryant Pond area, said, "I couldn't put another person in anywhere."

The story was much the same in the Bethel/Newry area. "We're filled," reported Fidelis Taylor, co-owner of the Rostay Motor Inn.

The Kings Inn, in Mason Township, reported a full house, and the condos at Sunday River were filled with owners or renters.

Despite the fact that there are about 3,200 beds available for tourists in the Bethel area, even some of the newly opened establishments were full. The River View Motel reported no rooms available this week, although at the beginning of the weekend they still had some vacancies. Aside from reservations and referrals from the skiway, manager Betsy Doyon said people were also coming in off the road. "They've been skiing and decide to spend the night," she said. Snowmobilers have also found the new motel to their liking, she said.

In town, at the newly opened Hammons House, innkeeper Sally Rollinson said, "I am full. It feels great. I'm delighted." She said her guests include cross-country skiers using the trails at The Bethel Inn.

Another fledgling innkeeper, Dick Fain, the new owner of The Norseman Inn, said, "This is our first big week since we came in. It's nice to see people in here." He reported his inn being "not quite filled up."

Entering just their second season as a bed and breakfast establishment, the Hitchcocks, at The Pointed Fir, on Paradise Road, were pleased by the crowds in town. "We're pretty well booked right up 'til January 5th," said Ed Hitchcock.

As expected, restaurants and stores did a big business. The IGA reported being out of bread. Beer and milk also disappeared quickly from the shelves. In general, business there was up considerably over the Christmas weekend last year, the manager reported.

At the Red Top Truck Stop, the skiers bought out the large stock of imported beers, while the dining room was filled all weekend and into this week. "I think it will stay this way all week," said Grace Gibson.

There was only one way to categorize the weekend, and the skiway's Wende Gray did that: "Business in booming!" she exulted.

Pond ice still dangerous

During the holiday season it's tempting for ice fishermen and snowmobilers to head out onto frozen lakes and ponds. But those doing so this year should exercise great care.

The Maine Warden Service warns that recent rains and a lack of really cold, below-zero weather has left most larger water bodies with treacherous ice conditions.

Although some fishermen are venturing out onto small ponds to fish for pickerel and white perch, they should do so only after testing the ice thickness.

"And don't assume that ice thickness is uniform," warns Warden Lt. Steve Hall, of the Greenville regional headquarters. "Ice may be fairly thick in coves, but out in the middle of larger lakes, including Moosehead, there are still areas of open water."

Even in far northern Maine, where a plane broke through the ice of Eagle Lake last week, ice conditions are treacherous enough that it has not been possible to remove the airplane, although it has been pulled out of the water.

Wardens say parents should be particularly watchful of children riding snowmobiles or all-terrain vehicles during the holiday recess, who might be tempted to drive out onto an inviting expanse of ice covered by snow, which they say may conceal dangerously thin ice.

OHHS student-of-month honored by Rotary Club

Lee Fortier was recently named student-of-month by the Oxford Hills Rotary Club.

A senior at Oxford Hills High School, Lee is the son of Noreen Hakala and Raymond Fortier, of South Paris.

Lee is a top scholar at Oxford Hills. He has consistently achieved high honor roll grades. As a junior he was named one of the top 500 Maine students to participate in the Maine Scholars Day at the University of Maine. In addition, Lee has been a key member of Oxford Hills' championship Math Team for four years.

Throughout high school Lee has demonstrated remarkable leadership in extracurricular activities. As a senior, Lee is vice-president of Student Council, where he serves as chairman of the calendar committee. In addition, he is currently president of the National Honor Society. The Oxford Hills Rotary Club student-of-the-month is selected by the faculty of OHHS. Students and teachers may nominate any student. The Oxford Hills

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, is endeavoring to bring frequently to you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and Word was God. He was in the beginning with God; all things were made through him, and without him was not anything made that was made. In him was life, and the life was the light of men. The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it... And the word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth; we have beheld his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father." (John 1:1-5,14)

In the New Year, what will you turn to for hope in discouraging moments, for love when you're lonely, for direction when you're confused, or for strength to keep on when you feel too weak to continue?

In the poetic beginning of his gospel, John proclaims an amazing truth: That power or principle which is at the core of all creation is directly involved in our lives, yours and mine. That Something which gives us light in our darkest moments and energy in our lassitude, took human form in Jesus of Nazareth. That which is the very source of meaningfulness, in these times when we are searching for trustworthy truth, reaches out to us in a real person like ourselves so that we cannot miss the message: You and I matter. We are valuable and worthwhile. We are cared about by the very origin of caring. You and I are loved. Every time we remember and believe that Jesus came to earth, died for us and still lives among us in love, we are seeing a little of that light which overcomes darkness. Every time we treat another person with love instead of fear or hate or disdain, we are tapping that divine source. John says it much more vividly: "To all who received him... he gave power to become children of God" (1:12). In the New Year, to what will you turn, on Whom will you depend?

Brandon Bass, Co-Pastor
West Parish Congregational Church

Rotary Club sponsors the award and will host Lee at a breakfast meeting next month.

OHHS debate team Does well in competition

The Oxford Hills High School debate team last weekend did very well in the northeastern debate competition, held in Manchester, Mass.

Competing against 26 of the top debate schools from New England, New York and New Jersey, the Oxford Hills "A" team took second place in the intermediate division, with a 7-1 record. The team consisted of sophomores Jen Gibson, Yvette Young, Lori Allen, and freshman Stephanie Keough. The negative squad of Gibson and Young took first place, with Young capturing the first-place speaker award by scoring 111 points out of a possible 120. There were 106 intermediates competing.

In the Lincoln-Douglas division, freshman Debbie Maxfield, sophomore T.J. Munn and junior Jill Caradonna also were impressive. Both Munn and Caradonna broke into the quarter-finals, with Caradonna the only debater to go undefeated, beating the top two debaters from the prestigious Bronx High School of Science along the way. She debated in the championship round before a full auditorium and placed second, on a split decision, behind a tough competitor from Hendrick Hudson High School, of New York.

NEW ELECTRIC HEAT PROGRAMS OFFERED

State Public Advocate Steve Ward has announced that the Maine Public Utilities Commission has approved a major new $3 million conservation program aimed at people who heat their homes with electricity.

Ward said, "This order establishes a new 'Weatherization and Insulation Services Program.' For a price of $49.95, homeowners and tenants who rely on electric heat can call CMP and arrange to have a contractor come to their home to caulk and weatherstrip all the windows and doors and building joints that need attention. Customers who participate can also receive a 50 percent discount on up to $400 worth of insulation installed in their homes.

For further information, contact Steve Ward at 289-2445.

West Paris
By VIVA WHITMAN

Writing early this week because of Christmas so I can see the nice sunshine today. Hope it stays good, but I don't like the forecast for tomorrow which is Christmas Day. So many people travel that I dislike it very much when there is bad weather to cause accidents. Some of my family have to travel as well as many others and I guess that is why it bothers me so much. After being in the accident in 1982, I hate to think of folks being hurt as I was.

Got so much to do today I don't know where to start so thought I had better do this first. I have two little girls under my feet, which makes it harder for an old lady like myself to do all that needs to be done.

I was in Lewiston from Friday until Monday. My son-in-law, Michael, was in the hospital for a few days with kidney stones bothering. The doctors don't think he passed it even though the pain subsided, so he has to go for more tests after Christmas. We are just keeping our fingers crossed, hoping he doesn't have another attack before then. I went down to baby-sit and then the girls came home with me until Christmas. Michael and Wynona are planning to come up tonight and stay overnight so we can see the girls when they see the tree on Christmas morning. I just hope I can get some good pictures of them when they first see the tree.

It will be just my luck to not get the pictures I want, but I shall try. I can still see my children's faces when they first saw the tree on Christmas morning. No presents when they went to bed and then in the morning: surprise, and what a surprised look they had when small like the girls are. It should be a good time.

The sale at West Paris Grange was a good one. I had gotten a few things done to sell and had pretty good luck. It was a cold day and not too warm in the dining hall where the sale was. The swinging doors let in the cold and the wood stoves had a job to keep it warm. We had a good time and most of us came away with something we had bought from someone else. What food they had was sold even though there wasn't as much as they have had before. The girls in charge said they did pretty good and every little bit helps to pay off the debt left on the chair lift.

Russell and I attended Franklin Grange Monday night for the Christmas party and we had a good time. There was a good program and gifts were exchanged.

THE KINDERGARTNERS AT LEGION MEMORIAL SCHOOL, in West Paris, presented their Christmas concert last week to parents, grandparents and friends.

ed. There was plenty of food for those who could eat the goodies brought by all.

I have sewed and did all I could this past week. Russell and I went down to West Paris Grange meeting on Thursday, Dec. 18, and had trouble getting home. It was snowing when we left and even though there hadn't been a big snowfall when Grange was over, the big hill out of West Paris was slippery. We got up around the curve but Russell had to shift gears and that was the end. The truck started spinning and we made pretty marks in the snow going sideways, so we decided to turn around and go back down Rt. 26 and home by way of South Paris. Made it alright that way but were a little later getting home than we had planned. One thing I don't want to forget to mention was the quilt raffle. The winning ticket wasn't drawn as some of the folks hadn't brought back their tickets that they had sold. I was told it would be drawn in the near future when they get all the tickets together to make it fair for everyone.

While in Lewiston this weekend, I went to the store to get something I needed and what a mob. It is hard to believe the people that were out shopping. I heard some say that they hadn't done any shopping for Christmas and I wondered how they were to get it done and everything ready. Guess I am slow, as I like to start early and get it done. I haven't quite accomplished what I wanted to as I still have buttons and button holes to put on a shirt, but otherwise I am ready as I will ever be where getting gifts are concerned. Still have a couple to wrap but hope to get it done today when the girls are down for naps.

Russell took me to Bethel yesterday to see the doctor. After seeing the doctor, we went up Sunday River to deliver some gifts for Bryce and Barbara Yates. Laura had come to the doctor's to meet us and get theirs, so have those delivered. Bryce and Barb have a lovely new house and we had been asked to come for Christmas but thinking they would not have it, we had made other plans and if it is going to snow, I shall be just as glad to stay at home.

I will be glad when tomorrow is over and I can get back to normal. I'll still have sewing to do and crocheting as I have things started and not finished. Got a letter from Peggy and she said her niece would love one of my fancy dollies for a wedding present in May. It takes time for me to do all these items so will have plenty to do after the holidays.

I would like to wish everyone who reads my silly writing, a Merry Christmas and a Great New Year to all. Take care and help make it happen. My best to you all.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE DAVIS

We have a new baby in our midst. Mr. and Mrs. James Miclon are receiving congratulations on the birth of a baby girl who weighed 8 lbs. 4 oz. She was born Dec. 17 at St. Mary's Hospital and was named Ashley Marie. They returned home Sunday.

Esther Davis took me to see the doctor in Lewiston, Thursday.

Thursday night Carl and Lettie Brooks took me to West Paris for the supper put on by the Grange. A Christmas party followed the supper. The Chapel Valley nursing home patients were invited. The chairlift that West Paris Grange has had installed in their hall was put to work and was quite a comfort to those who can't climb stairs.

David Clements arrived home this week for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Clements and Eric. He has been in the Antarctic for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews, Bridgeton, called on me Saturday afternoon. Arthur did several jobs around here which were a big help to me.

Everyone is tearing around trying to deliver their gifts before Christmas. I had a cute loaf of bread delivered to me from the Woodstock SDA Church Forestdale School, which I had appreciated very much. It was very thoughtful of them.

Danny Miclon is home from California for the holidays. Michael and friend and Danny called on Mrs. Kristene Miclon and helped her with some work on Monday.

I was in to Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway's and saw the beautiful water color picture Joyce was doing. She sells them if anyone wants them so here is your chance to decorate your walls.

Many birds and grey squirrels are busy at the feed station now that the weather is cold. We can't forget our feathered friends. The chick-a-dees are coming in now for food.

Tri-Town Rescue

Tri-Town is closer to its goal of $20,000, now reaching $18,000. The fund-raising thermometer was damaged in a recent accident and needs repair before the next $1,000 is painted on. The chimney is now through the roof. The remaining feet will be installed when the weather gets warmer.

The main goal for 1987 is to be in the new rescue building at Trap Corner. The auxiliary is looking forward to doing the ambulance laundry right in the building. Tri-Town also is evaluating the condition of the older ambulance, to determine the best time to replace it.

Tri-Town wishes everyone a very good 1987. May your New Year's resolutions all come true.

Safety Tip of the Week

New Year's Day is a time to reflect on the year that has just ended and improve those things in our lives we might want to change. In contemplating on the coming year, be realistic in the setting of any resolutions.

For example, resolutions to lose weight can be devastating if an appropriate weight loss program is not followed.

Likewise, a desire to exercise can be fatal if not approved by a doctor. Without the proper warm-ups, muscles can be pulled, leading to great discomfort—not the desired improved health. A bad heart will be aggravated by an aggressive exercise program.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Davis and daughters, Amanda and Erica.

El/4 Timothy Hall of Port Campbell, Ky., is spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall, South Andover. Mrs. Erford Tucker of the nursing home in Canton, spent Christmas day with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall.

At the First Congregational Church on Dec. 21, Rev. Marriotte Churchill had as her sermon topic, "God's Inexhaustible Originality." At 11 a.m. a fellowship coffee in the Christian Education Building.

At 5:30 p.m. Christmas carolling by all of the Youth Group followed by fun and refreshments at Mrs. Harvey Fisher's. Christmas service was held on Dec. 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Deans entertained on Christmas, their children, Sgt. and Mrs. Gerald S. Deans and daughter, Randi Marie, Kimballie Marie of UNEB, Biddeford, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wilson

Mr. and Mrs. William Swan entertained their children for Christmas, Mr. and Mrs. David Morin of Dixville Notch, N.H., and Karen Swan of Rumford.

Mrs. Robert McLeod of Auburn spent Christmas with her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Percival and daughters, Stephanie, Jennifer and Angela.

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Emerson and sons, Forrest and Justin, of Andover, Mass., arrive Dec. 26 to spend the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jodrey.

THE SHOEMAKER AND THE ELVES was presented by Mrs. Loper's 3rd-graders to the student body at Agnes Gray School last week. The story tells of how a band of elves help a shoemaker and his wife to make lots of shoes and lots of money. The shoemaker and his wife return the kindness by making new clothes and shoes for the elves. Mr. Barker, the music teacher, directed, while Mrs. Small and Mrs. Gilpatrick made the costumes. The cast included: standing, Katie Walton, Erin Small and Liberty Woodworth; kneeling, Heather Lynn Edwards, Darcie Marie Robertson, Jodi Allen Gilpatrick and Charlie Billings.

New Year's Eve festivities at The Bethel Inn

At Andover...

Elderwood Manor Items

by Florence Hall

Donald O'Leary, Mexico, visited his aunt, Ann Fox, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Delano and girls had Christmas dinner at Mr. and Mrs. Norman Whites.

Charlotte Hayes, Thomaston, visited her mother, Elizabeth Sennett, Christmas Day. It was Mrs. Sennett's birthday, so two births were celebrated.

Florence Hall had Christmas dinner at Roxbury, with nephew Louis Hall and family.

Louise Elliott called on Dorothy Elliott on Wednesday.

Mark Thurston and family spent time with Bernice Glover on Christmas Day.

Gertrude Hutchins had supper Christmas Eve at her son Robert Hutchins and family, Christmas Day they enjoyed gift-giving together.

Stanley Fox, Bethel, and his mother, Ann Fox, enjoyed the church service together on Christmas Eve.

Flora Whitten's granddaughter, Lynne Marshall, visited her overnight Christmas Eve.

Bus riders Wednesday were Bernice Glover, Elizabeth Sennett and Dorothy Elliott.

Catherine McGuire went to Strong to spend Christmas weekend with daughter, Gloria, and family.

Thought for the Day

It's hard to stay unhappy if you've found someone whose day you can brighten.

Calvary Congregational Church

Last Sunday the choir presented a cantata entitled "God's Love Gift." Much work went into this and it was well presented. Pastor Grover read a poem, "Our Life."

Sunday evening at 6:00, our Christmas program. Everyone welcomed by Pastor Grover with Judy Bailey on the piano. Marilyn Morton and Barbara Bailey sang "Mary's Little Boy Child." Marilyn added to the program by playing the piano as well.

Puppet show, "The First Christmas Gift." Nursery, "Jingle Bells," play, "Jesus, the Light of the World." Lorena Simmons read a poem, "Suppose." Presents and trees followed.

Jan. 10: Men's breakfast at South Andover.

Jan. 14: Quarterly business meeting, voting on new trustee.

THE ADDITION OF MORE CHAIRLIFTS and more trails during the off-season meant no lift lines at Sunday River, even with the record-breaking turnout last weekend.

SENIOR CITIZEN MENUS

Monday, Jan. 5: Veal pattie, potatoes, beans, peaches.

Tuesday, Jan. 6: New England boiled dinner, Jello with topping, bread.

Thursday, Jan. 8: Baked beans, hamburg pattie, garden salad, orange wedge, whole wheat roll.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Historical Society will meet on Wednesday, Jan. 7, at the home of Barbara Dunham, at 7:30 p.m.

The Greenwood Fire Department will meet Tuesday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p.m., for its regular meeting.

The town offers its sincerest sympathy to the family of Charlie Melville, who died last week at Stephens Memorial Hospital. How many of us have fond memories of Charlie's donuts that he used to supply to the Fire Department. For that, and for himself, he will be missed.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, and Ralph, called on Mr. and Mrs. Earl Colby and boys, West Greenwood, Christmas Day; and on Mr. and Mrs. Roger Chopping, in East Dixfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Jon Smith, in Dryden, on Friday. They also got a chance to see Don and Jane Smith, of Livermore Falls, who called on the Jon Smiths while they were there.

Bertha Flanders reports she had a nice Christmas with lots of gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gaudet, Yarmouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morse and Darren, Rumford, were Christmas Day supper guests, and Arnold Jordan called on her. On Friday, Doug Jordan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reynold Jordan, of Watford, came and got Bertha and Gladys Jordan, with Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hathaway, and took them and the Reynold Jordans for dinner, and then took them all home again.

Brent Swan's wife, Barbara, from Florida, and her mother, Dot Tilton, from Center Harbor, N.H., visited Monday and Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Swan. Brent spent Christmas in Africa.

Mr. and Mrs. John Chase were fortunate to have their son Richard and wife Mindy from Clarksville, Tenn., home for the holidays.

Tammy and Bud Caron, Alexandria, Va., spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dunham.

Employees of the Gilbert Manufacturing Company were presented with 5-pound tins of ham from the Gilberts this

A Happy New Year to each of you. The Jenkins' Fund Gifts, Senior Citizen Baskets, and Happy Holiday Bags were passed out Christmas Eve day at the town office. Many people came in with contributions and got their gifts. Connie Gagnon and Ellie Lecomte delivered the rest.

The Roy Berniers and friends are spending a week at their home here.

The Edwards families are spending some vacation time in their Back Street home.

The Atwoods, Eric and Arthur Bernier visited at the Bergerons on their way through to Pittsburg.

The Abbotts, Jeanne and Iva, visited at Heritage Farm Friday evening. The moose are strolling about more than usual for the season.

Ellie Lecomte got a nice Christmas present when she picked up a frosty deer horn while she was doing outside chores.

Christmas.

Ralph Mills planned to leave Monday morning and return to his home in Colchester, Vt., after spending Christmas week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mills.

There was a good attendance of both the Cantata and the Christmas Eve service of cards and candles at the Locke Mills Union Church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Mills attended a special Christmas service of prayer and praise at the Voc-Tech, Monday evening, with other members of Women's Aglow.

Clara Whitman, with Verna Swan, picked up Vera Cross and took her to the South Paris Congregational Church for the Christmas Eve service, and then they all went to Nellie and Ken Swans' home on Paris Hill. Ken and Nellie both sing in the choir.

The Greenwood Historical Society will sponsor an Old Time New Year's Dance at the Town Hall, beginning at 8 p.m., on Wed., Dec. 31. A luncheon will be served at 10 p.m.

Octavia Poole, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Emerson, of Andover, was chosen to carry the symbolic torch at her school's annual Olympiad, held this month in Escondido, Calif. As Escondido doesn't have the snow that Andover does, the skiers "skied" on hay, and used 2x4's as skis, with three students to a "ski." Octavia is an eighth-grader and has been voted "most athletic" the past two years. She is also an all-A student.

Mrs. Eddie Millett is working at the new store and filling station at North Waterford.

There was a large attendance at the candlelight service at the church Wednesday evening. Danny Barker had charge of the service.

Mrs. Grace Nelson went to Bethel Monday to have her new puppy looked over by Dr. Hudson, veterinarian. Shirley Grant visited her brother Bob and wife over Christmas.

Rotary Club notes

The Bethel Rotary club held its regular breakfast meeting at Martha's Restaurant last Tuesday. Visiting Rotarians and guests were Frank Davis and Bob Bub, Rockland club; Fred Collins, Oxford Hills club, and Bob and Dodie Greaney, Spain and Andover.

The latter couple spoke on the upcoming student exchange project, which will bring Spanish youngsters to the Bethel area next summer. The Greaneys have been working hard with Spanish officials and the airlines to make the project a success.

Bruce Powell handled the weekly raffle, with the winner being visiting Rotarian Fred Collins, of Oxford Hills.

The last of Rotary's Christmas season projects was Dec. 23 and involved packing food baskets for needy families in SAD #44. Rotarians Rolfe Glines, George Noll, Roger Conant, Jim Monahan and John Head headed up the project, with assistance from others. The school bus drivers took care of delivering the baskets to families on their regular routes.

In addition to the food purchased by Rotary, other organizations provided items to help fill the baskets. Those organizations were the Andover and Woodstock school communities, the West

Kaye Glines, Danbury, N.H., visited her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Ring, a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ring, Freeport, visited his parents over the weekend.

Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Jan. 8, with a potluck dinner. Each one is to bring something for the dinner, their own plate and silverware and something to be used as a game prize in the afternoon. This is at the Woodstock town hall.

The Sunday School and Awana Christmas tree and program was held on Monday night with a very good attendance.

Mrs. Ruth Dunham visited her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Roland McMillan, Rumford, over the weekend.

Parish Congregational Church, the Methodist Church, Our Lady of the Snows Church, the Newry Community Church, the West Bethel Church and the Locke Mills Church.

Although the Christmas baskets are all distributed, there is still a need for clothing, and the Bethel Rotary clothing drive is still underway. John Todd encouraged Rotarians, and others, to leave

Reception for graduates of Oxford Hills H.S.

The Oxford Hills High School Guidance Department invites all Oxford Hills graduates who are presently enrolled in college to a reception in the high school library on Jan. 8, at 2:15 p.m.

This will be an opportunity for students to connect with former classmates and members of the Oxford Hills High School faculty. Refreshments will be served.

SIEGEL TAKES SECOND IN BRETTON WOODS BIATHLON

Gould Academy's Kirk Siegel took second place, of 29 competitors, in the Bretton Woods Biathlon Series 10-K open race Dec. 20, in Bretton Woods, N.H.

Mr. Siegel's time of 38 minutes and 17 seconds over the course was just a minute and a half off the 34:41 pace set by the winner, David Wilhide, of Hanover, N.H.

Also finishing very well was Bethel's Ben Michaud, who came in fifth, with a time of 41:27.

YOUNG VOICES

The young authors involved in the "Bread Loaf in the Schools" writing grant program send you best wishes for a joyous holiday season.

They hope you will feel free to respond directly to their writing by sending your responses to the author, by grade level, care of: Crescent Park School, Bethel, Me. 04217.

This page of Bethel students' writings is paid for by proceeds from the "Bread Loaf in the Schools" writing grant.

THE FOX AND THE RABBIT

Once upon a time there was a fox. It dared a rabbit to jump and knock a toy jet out of the tree. He did it. A hundred bees flew out. So the rabbit went and told the king. The king said, "Whoever finds Sly Daddy Fox will get one hundred dollars." The tailor got him and got the one hundred dollars.

ADVENTURES WITH DARBY HICKEY

WARNING: DON'T LET KIDS READ THIS BOOK

It all began one afternoon playing a game of kickball. I kicked the ball and ran to first base. Then I fell in first base. I went down and down and then I landed on the ground. I was in a strange place. THUP! An arrow shot the wall. I ran down the hall. I ran into a desert. I was in a suit of brown. I saw a bird-type creature. We fought and fought and then I won the battle. I walked and walked through a dark cave. Then I saw a strange sight. It was a golden head. I went to grab for it, but I fell. I landed in a strange place somewhere. I could hear some kids playing kickball. I walked through the forest. Then I saw the playground. I ran to play kickball. My foot went through the ball and all the kids turned into lizard creatures. I then ran into the woods and into the city.

NATURE AND WILDLIFE

I love nature and wildlife. The moose is eating the green grass. The birds are flying south. The bear is eating because he is going to sleep for the winter. In spring he will wake up. The squirrel is collecting nuts. He does that because he doesn't hibernate. He digs a hole in the ground. He stays there all winter. Some animals that stay up in winter are: squirrels, deer, coy dogs and mountain goats. The coy dog is chasing the rabbit. The snow came today. It is hard for the deer to get food. This is a beaver's den. In winter it looks like a hill. The bears are going to sleep.

NOT ENOUGH LOVE

You used to have it,
But now it's gone.
You didn't want it,
And so you left it,
But now you miss it.
If you'd loved it more,
It would still be with you.
But you didn't want it,
And it knew it,
So now it's gone.

MY PETS

I have one dog and one cat. My dog is named Sport and my cat is named Tiger. My dog is a beagle and my cat is half-Siamese. I don't know what the other half is, but the best part is they are both my pets. Sport sometimes eats Tiger's food. It is funny when he does it. My brother shut the door on Tiger's tail. That's why it looks funny.

THE JOURNEY IN THE JUNGLE

Tim, Mom and Dad went on a cruise. Tim lost his balance and fell off the boat. Tim got knocked out. The waves washed him to land. He was awakened by the land.

He looked up and saw some people around him beating drums. It was a tribe. The people of the tribe gave him some food and he was on his way. He traveled and traveled. He heard a crackle in the bushes. He was shaking hard. Popt It was a monkey.

One day he found a beach. He decided to get off the island so he jumped in the water. A dolphin gave him a hard time. He ran into a sea turtle. He saw land in the distance.

Finally he got to shore. There was a lion there, but he was a friendly lion. They made friends. The lion got his food. One day a plane landed and Tim got on and flew away.

CAMPING

I go camping every summer. Last year I went to Canada. This year I went to Bar Harbor and saw Thunder Hole.

Thunder Hole is a hole that squirts water. It is ocean water. It squirted me and I got soaked.

The morning after Hurricane Gloria, Thunder Hole was spouting so much water that you could not go down to see it.

I have postcards of places I have gone to. I have gone to Canada and Bar Harbor.

A BROKEN ARM

I had a broken arm and it did not feel very good, and I had to go to the hospital to have an x-ray. But the x-ray did not hurt. It felt funny—very funny. It's like a big camera that takes pictures of your inside.

THE LION

THE ADVENTURES IN CRESTLAND

It was a calm day in Crestland, when all of a sudden the alarm went off. The decay fighters! Call out the toothbrush fighters! Bring out the Crest cruisers! They went on for days. Then finally Luke Toothbrush Brusher saw Han Toothbrush Brusher in trouble. He was surrounded by decay and out of toothpaste, so Luke came to the rescue with his super Crest cruiser and blew them all away.

Han said, "Thanks to you I didn't lose my bristles."

They finally ended the battle. That night they had a big party, with fluoride and everything. The next few days were very calm. Luke decided to take a cruise with Princess Lea Toothbrush Brusher. So he hopped in his super Crest cruiser and went over to her house. She was outside having a glass of fluoride.

Luke said, "Do you want to go take a cruise around the ToothpasteWay?"

She said, "OK."

So they took a long cruise around the Toothpaste Way. You know why. Well, when they got back the alarm went off again.

FIRST SNOW

It was three days after the first day of winter. The youngest boy of the McSmiths, now four (almost five), was disappointed when he woke up to find the ground still brown and hard. No snow. It was also a disappointment to his mother, partly for her young child, who so anxiously waited to experience snow, and partly so she wouldn't have to hear these same old boring lines: "When is it going to snow, Mommy? Why hasn't it snowed yet, Mommy?" She wanted it to snow for her son, who had been asking about it ever since June when they moved to Rochester, New York. His two older brothers, who were in high school, had been telling him all about the wonderful things you can do with snow and by now the young boy pictured snow to be more like clouds than anything else.

That night, while he brushed his teeth and got into his pajamas, he told his mother a detailed story about him and his dog. He woke up several times during the night, at 8:30, at 10:12 and a last time near midnight. When he woke, a bright red glowing came into view. It was his alarm clock glowing in the black night. All he could hear was its constant ticking. He tried to go back to sleep for what seemed to be an hour, but even after counting 29 snowflakes (instead of sheep) he couldn't go to sleep. As a last resort he turned on his night light and felt around for his Transformer flashlight. He turned it on and slowly shone it around the room, carefully studying every object in the room. His toys looked the same, but asleep. Everything seemed to be hesitating to awaken because he was looking at them.

He had a feeling something very special was going on that he didn't know about. Something important was happening. He twirled the flashlight around in his hand and when it hit the window he stopped. A speck of white caught his eye. He automatically jumped out of bed. After running down the stairs, he pulled on his boots, grabbed his coat, and hurried out the door. At once he sank into the powdery white ground. He rolled around and threw "IT" into the air. The full moon shone down onto the bright glowing ground. The light bounced off "IT" onto the trees. It had finally snowed.

THE ADVENTURES OF WOBBIE WOBBIE

One morning at Jackson Laboratory, off the coast of Bar Harbor, I, Tom Small, a doctor, was trying to invent a vaccine to prevent gum disease, when suddenly the formula started bubbling. A green ball popped out. As soon as it hit the hard floor, it transformed into a little furry creature. All the creature could say was, "Woobie, woobie."

I reached down to pick it up and it shot a green liquid into my hand. It started to burn. I lifted my hand and wiped what appeared to be acid off my hand. As I did this, the cute little creature took off. I had left the window open just a crack, so the creature jumped out.

I chased him out and scooped him up in my hand and dropped him into a box. That night I decided the cute little creature had to go.

The next morning, I boarded a bus to Bethel, Maine, with the box that had that creature in it. Only one thing was on my mind as the bus stopped on the top of Main Street. That was that I had failed to make the vaccine. That thought drifted from my mind as I walked down Main Street. As I walked, another thought entered my mind. I had to find my friend's house. I knew it was on lower Main Street, but I didn't know which house he was in. I stopped at the Gulf station and asked for directions to the Chamberlin's. He said it was a red house down the street by Martha's. When I arrived, Zach was outside.

"Hi, Dr. Small," he said.
"I have something to give you," I said. "Here."
I gave it to him and ran off.
Now, 15 years later, I hear that they lived happily ever after.

THE OUTER SPACE GIANT

One day a spaceship landed in front of my house. Then a big door opened, and a GIANT man walked out. It was a purple, green, orange, pink and yellow man. I stood in the doorway with my mouth WIDE open.

The big, huge giant walked toward me. I ran to my mom, slamming the door behind me. When my mom heard about the giant she said, "I don't believe one solitary word you said." I said, "Well go look for yourself."

So my mom went outside, but when she looked, the man had gone back home. When I looked on the grass I saw a note right where the spaceship was. I read the note and it told me where he lived. So the next day I went to visit him. When I got there he said he wanted me to be his friend, so I was.

Laurie and Alan Wilson, Bethel, Vicki and Sonya Wilson, Portland, visited Irene Wilson on Sunday. Visitors on Tuesday were Sandy, Amy, and Seth Wilson, Sunday River, Gloria Wilson, Bethel, and Mindy Wilson, home from USM.

Pat Haskemeyer, Watertown, N.Y., expected to arrive Friday to spend the weekend with Howard and Gen Gorham. Her brother, Harry Gorham, plans to get up Sunday from Westbrook to spend the day.

John Dubois of Auburn visited at Deny Wilson's Sunday.

Ralph, Carrie, Mary and Ramsey Harrington, Sunday River, visited Ray, Janice and Patrick Harrington Christmas Eve.

Ray, Janice and Patrick joined Alfred and Cora Johnson, Don and Pat Johnson and Pat's mother, Edith Morse, of Massachusetts, for Christmas Eve at Norway.

Tommy Harrington phoned home Christmas Eve. He spent the holiday with his girlfriend's family in the homey Robbie and Kathie Harrington arrived home late Christmas Eve, from Columbus, Ga.

Robbie has accepted a position with the Atlanta, Ga., police service. He starts Jan. 8 and will be moving there from Columbus.

Ray was pleased to have a Christmas Eve call from Jeff Boyle, in North Carolina, wishing him, Janice and the Boy Scout troop a Merry Christmas.

Ray is traveling to Sanford Saturday evening to an Eagle Court of Honor for one of the boys who was in his National Jamboree Troop in 1985. While down there Ray will visit with his aunt, Gertrude Harrington, in North Berwick.

Marc, Leslie, Nathan and Jennifer Moore celebrated Christmas at Russ and Judy Andrews Friday evening, in Shelburne, N.H. Judy and Marc's parents, Harry and Bernie Moore, of Goshen, Conn., and Brett Moore, of Torrington, Conn., were spending the weekend there.

A Happy New Year to all!

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vaillancourt and daughters, Serena and Maia from Vancouver, British Columbia, were overnight guests Saturday of the Dave Salways. Mrs. Vaillancourt was the former Kathy Towne of Kennebunkport and graduated from Gould Academy.

Sunday callers of the Kimball-Salways were Mr. and Mrs. Craig Turner of Otisfield, Mrs. Dottie Adams of Hanover, Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Gatchell of Old Orchard Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morton of South Paris.

Mrs. Norma Salway and I were in Lewiston Tuesday in Mechanic Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hindman of Windingham spent Christmas Eve and morning with his grandmother, Mrs. Elmira Doyen. Lee Hindman and family of Windingham and Mark Hindman spent part of the day. Hugh and Marjorie Awalk of Augusta came Friday. Marjorie will spend the rest of the week here with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Lescault and Mark Jr. spent Christmas Eve and day with his parents in West Paris. They plan to visit relatives in Massachusetts and Rhode Island over the weekend.

I went to Otisfield Wednesday afternoon and spent Christmas with my daughter and family at The Cape. What a miserable day, weatherwise! Although it was a white Christmas here and there I felt sorry for those who did not have one. It always seems more in the spirit of the season when its white and colder.

Mrs. Eleanor Parsons went for a medical check-up one day last week. She has been suffering with an ear infection.

Joe and Leah Deegan, and Warren and Grace Smith; Locke Mills, joined with Ronnie and Sally Smith for Christmas dinner.

Cub Scout Pack 509 had its Christmas party at the Rumford Point Church on Friday, Dec. 19. The boys performed a skit for the assembled parents and guests, sang songs, exchanged gifts, and had a visit from Santa Claus. Den meetings will resume Tuesday, Jan. 6. The Pack 509 Pinewood Derby run-off will be at the Rumford Point Church on Jan. 24.

The Hanover Community Christmas Tree has been very enjoyable this year. A problem of moisture, causing the lights to malfunction, was corrected thanks to a donation made for the effort by an anonymous donor.

The large Christmas stocking given away by Tom and Carrie Pitcher at Hanover Village Store was won by Ms. Stacy Swan of Hanover.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Elwood (Beany) Richardson who passed away in Norway on Dec. 21 at the age of 88 years.

Majority of Mainers want state to aid forests

Over 61 percent of Maine people think state government should do more to solve forest problems, according to a recent statewide poll of public opinion sponsored by the Maine Department of Conservation's "Forests for the Future" program.

An additional 25 percent feel state efforts to solve forest management problems should remain about the same.

The telephone poll involved adult residents of 714 households who were asked a series of questions designed to measure public concern and knowledge of Maine forest issues and problems.

When asked to identify the most important problem facing Maine's forests today, over 40 percent of the respondents cited "overcutting of trees." Another 21 percent mentioned a variety of threats to the forest, ranging from fire and insects to acid rain; 12 percent listed problems with management; 3 percent, recreation and wildlife problems; and 2 percent saw no problems.

Respondents, using a scale of 0 to 10, valued the state's forests most as a wildlife habitat (9.2) and as a source of clean air and water (9.0). Other forest uses that rated high among respondents were recreational use (7.5), raw material use (7.2), a buffer against unpleasant sights and sounds (7.0), and as a source of wood fuel (6.6).

The poll showed that Maine residents are clearly concerned about the future of the forest and are most worried about the way the land is left after trees are cut, about the impact of air pollution and acid rain, and about the use of chemicals to control insects and unwanted trees, state officials said.

According to the poll results, the public's view is that overcutting is the number one problem in the state's forests, and the visual impact of wood harvesting is of greater concern than a potential wood shortage.

The department's report on the status of Maine forests is to be submitted to the

Output record set by Maine Yankee

The Maine Yankee nuclear power plant last week passed the six billion kilowatt hour mark for total output thus far this year. The previous record was 5.9 billion kilowatt hours, produced in 1976.

The nuclear power plant is currently producing power at a cost of two cents per kilowatt hour, according to a company spokesman. This is less than half the cost of power from an oil-fueled plant, he pointed out, even with today's low oil prices.

Maine Yankee has been operating for 14 years and has produced more than 69 billion kilowatt hours thus far. This makes it the 7th most productive nuclear power plant among some 325 plants operating worldwide, the spokesman said. There are 100 nuclear plants operating in the U.S.

governor and the legislature next month, including the results of the public opinion poll.

By EVELINE B. VATCHER

A Happy New Year to everyone. Dickie Robbins is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital, and his father, Ernie Robbins, Bryant Pond, is also a patient there. Hope they share the same room.

Dick Bean, Warren Emery, Joe Vatcher, and several men from Sull mer worked on the snowmobile trail near Dick Bean's and the Trask farm Sunday, so now the trail is all clear.

Harry Childs, respiratory technician from Stephens Memorial Hospital was at Evelyn's Wednesday. He is always bright and cheerful when he comes.

Callers at Lawrence's: Karen Merrill and James Edgar Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Downing, Arnold Coffin, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Penley Sr. Mrs. Lois Ellingwood also called and brought some tapes she had recorded for Barbara Felt, and Barbara was very pleased with the tapes. She felt like dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bean will leave Wednesday for a vacation at Moosehead Lake where they have a camp. They take their snowmobile. I hope the ice is safe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ames and daughter, Gorham, N.H., visited at Mr. and Mrs. Harland Abbott's Sunday.

Smelting will soon be on the agenda. I hope the ice is safe to hold the fish houses. The people where Joe Vatcher goes are going to Florida on Jan. 9 for two weeks, but there should be smelting days after that.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

As I ate my breakfast this morning a chirping red squirrel scolded at me, sounding like one of these toys which a child has wound up to the limit, and it's running down with a clattering, clacking impertinence. He sounded out of temper.

I tell him he is lazy for he is so slow getting out in the morning. By the time he gets here the gray squirrels have eaten all of the seeds which I have put out the night before. I have seen them come in just as it begins to grow light. They stay until the last seed is gone, then depart for the day. But the Red comes and goes all day long. He is very clever, but destructive. But I should miss them if they went away.

This has been a busy week for everyone as they try to finish Christmas shopping.

I attended the Christmas party and tree with others of the family: Fred and Rena Curtis, Dorothy Curtis, local, and Ernest Curtis, Poland. It was at the Market Square Nursing Home, where brother Frank Curtis is staying. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hakala, local, were there to be with their uncle and grandmother.

Doris Hayes is going to her granddaughter's in New Hampshire for Christmas.

Lettie Brooks, West Paris, called on me this week.

The nicest thing about Christmas is telling our friends we care and remembering.

727 dams identified throughout the state

With the Jan. 1 deadline for dam registration approaching, the state Department of Environmental Protection's dams coordinator, Donald Anderson, reports "new" dams are still being identified more than three years after the enactment of the Maine Dam Inspection, Registration and Abandonment Act.

The law defines a dam as a man-made artificial barrier that impounds or diverts a river, stream or great pond and which is two feet or more in height and has an impounding capacity of 15 acre-feet or more at maximum water storage elevation.

Maine now has 727 registered dams, including one registered for the first time two weeks ago. Mr. Anderson said the new dam was discovered shortly after a newspaper item appeared based on a press release by the DEP reminding owners of the Jan. 1 registration renewal deadline.

The dams unit of the DEP's Bureau of Land Quality Control maintains a computerized registry of dams in the state. The law provides for the state to assume ownership of dams that are not registered and are thus deemed abandoned.

Maine's widest dam is Wyman Dam, 3,173 feet on the Kennebec River, in Moose. The highest is Harris Dam, also on the Kennebec, in Indian Pond Township, at 175 feet. Both belong to Central Maine Power Co.

Notes from the

Woodstock Historical Society

At the last society meeting a survey of classical music was presented. Slides of local interest were shown, and an exchange of gifts was enjoyed.

Frances Harding has supplied the society with some valuable information. She donated a book with biographies of famous citizens of Paterson, N.J. Among them was the life of Mr. Wiske, who for many years ran a summer music camp in Bryant Pond. Many famous singers and musicians gave instruction to visitors there.

C. Mortimer Wiske was a native of Troy, N.Y., born in 1853. He directed the Brooklyn Choral Society, the Amphion, Elterpe, Caecilia, and other groups of Brooklyn and the Orpheus of New York. In later years he lived in Paterson, N.J., where he directed the Orpheus Club, the Caecilia Ladies Vocal Society, and the Paterson Festival Association. For several years he was the chorus master for Theodore Thomas and was prominently connected with the great Wagner Festivals of 1884.

This is a vital contribution to the annals of Woodstock history. We are most grateful to Frances Harding for this crucial data on Mr. Wiske. He was the only really prominent citizen of Woodstock on whom we had no biographical information.

The next society meeting will feature a "So You Think You Know Woodstock" quiz. The retirement committee will be Eva B. Twitchell and Kathleen Billings.
